“ What a legacy Danny Lynn left behind! He was such a hard-working individual, building numerous businesses from the ground up. There was not anything he couldn't accomplish once he set his mind to it. He loved his family and friends and employees. He treated his employees like they were family members themselves. He made his way successfully and wished the same for others. He was the type of man that others sought advice from regularly and then people actually took that advice to heart and listened to him. He had an adventurous spirit and lived life to it's fullest. Whether flying his airplane or traveling to Canada to fish and hunt, he always wanted to experience all of what this life had to offer. How blessed we all were to know and love him. May he rest in peace and may God comfort us as we all have suffered such a great loss of a man that was truly one of a kind.

“ Lisa, i am sadden that Danny lost his battle with cancer. I know it has been tough on you and your family for a long time. Take peace in the fact he is no longer in pain or suffering. He is in God's hands now as you are. God will heal your loss but it will take time. Keep faith and relish the happy memories of Danny and the wonderful family you created. May God bless you and your family at this time of loss.

“ This is one guy that will truly be missed by everyone who knew him. I met Danny 45 years and I will never forget him, he has and always will have a special place in my heart.

I heart breaks because of what his family is going to endure from this point forward.

I have been told the pain get easier in time, I'm not sure that is totally true. So I say to you "Keep the Faith and Faith will get you through". May God be with each and everyone of you, and comfort you during this terrible time of sorrow. Rest assured he is no longer in pain, he is at peace now.

Rest now my friend, love you always.
