“ Rebecca, Lee, Anna, Maria, Sara, Frank, and family, Although I had known your family for years because of Mr. Morris being at L & S, it wasn't until about 15 years ago that I got to know your parents a little better. Your parents were sweet, hospitable, kind, caring and loved life. Dementia is an awful disease, that robs the joy out people's lives. I know that your mom is now at peace along with your dad.

One of the best stories I recall is when she left the court-house annex and pulled up in front of an oncoming train. She, of course, survived the wreck, her vehicle didn't. Marge had one thing on her mind, getting a Zero Turn Mower. With the mower in her mind, the train turned her vehicle around. I nick-named her Choo-Choo after that event.

A few years later we were at a party at her house, I think for Rebecca's 50th, I came in and hugged her and asked: "how is it going Choo-Choo?" she hugged back and replied, "I am fine, now tell me again why you call me that?" I said "you pulled out in front of a train", she said, "Oh Yes."

Love you guys. She was a great lady!
